That's life!
Decisions, decisions

Don't rush me Peter!

1. JELENET

Peter: Sharon, I called a real-estate agent five minutes ago. He deals with apartments in Japan... He said he'd send an e.mail with some photos. That way we can choose which apartment we like the best.

(Jack belép a nappaliba és félrehúzódik. Peter és Sharon nem veszik észre, hogy megjött és tovább beszélgetnek.)

Sharon: Don't rush me Peter! You know I haven't decided...

Peter: I know, we've talked about this a lot... But doesn't the idea of leaving appeal to you? I mean, just think of it: a new country, a new life together, new experiences... Now, I'm really enthusiastic about this opportunity! It's not every day you have a chance like this.

Sharon: Well, I've wanted to make changes in my life for a long time, but these changes seem so... Well... So overwhelming! There, I said it... I've never been to Asia and I'm frightened of going there to live!

Peter: But I told you that Alice has been there. She went to Japan in 1995... She says it's a fascinating country. It's antique and modern at the same time... It's full of interesting traditions and new innovations.

Sharon: I know... I know... I've read a number of books. Last night I finished reading "Japan in the 21st Century". I admit I'm curious about it all...

Peter: You see? Just remember, you were afraid when we came to London. But you've adjusted well... We've been here a year and a half and you haven't once complained. Uh, I take that back, you complained once last week!

Sharon: Come on Peter, stop joking around! You're right. I've made great friends. That's why I'm so hesitant to go...

Peter: I know... I'm also sad at the idea of leaving everyone... (Észreveszi Jack-et.) Hey, Jack, how long have you been in here?

Jack: A couple of minutes... Excuse me, I didn't mean to spy... But you were so involved in your discussion...

Peter: So you've heard that she still hasn't decided, even if she's going to decide soon. In fact, we are just talking about which apartment to choose.

Jack: Don't rush it, Peter... Decisions about major changes take time.

Peter: So whose side are you on? I need to get going... I took my watch to be repaired two weeks ago and I still haven't picked it up... Sooner or later they're gonna put it up for sale! Bye! Jack, I'm leaving her (Sharon-hoz fordul) in your hands. Please try to convince her... (Peter kimegy.)

Jack: I was thinking... You'll be all alone in a foreign country... You won't know anyone... Peter will be at rehearsals all day... At least here you have us... I will always be here for you.

Sharon: Yes, I know that...

Jack: ... Oh, and did you know that women can't go out alone in Japan?

Sharon: Jack that only happens in the Middle East! Stop it now! The truth is I love new experiences... Remember when I moved to London two years ago? I've loved every minute of it.

Jack: But that's not what you told Peter.

Sharon: I said it on purpose... You know, I want him to slow down.

Jack: I heard what you said five minutes ago, you were sincere, you weren't joking.

Sharon: You misunderstood, Jack! I'm not afraid of leaving... I've lived in a lot of different places in my life. I've done a lot of things... I've worked as a baby-sitter, as a tour guide, as a waitress... I'm sure I'll find something in Japan.

Jack: I know you all too well, Sharon! You haven't ever really enjoyed any of those jobs! You still haven't found what you want to do in life!

Sharon: Stop it Jack! I'm glad you promised Peter to convince me to go!

Jack: I didn't promise him anything! So, what have you decided? Are you going to move?

Sharon: I don't know. I think I will... Yes, I'm going to move.

Jack: If you've already decided, why did you have a job interview yesterday afternoon?

Sharon: Who told you that? Anne?

Jack: No! I haven't spoken to her for days...

Sharon: So how, how did you find out?

Jack: It doesn't matter... So? You still haven't answered my question!

Sharon: I don't have to answer to you, Jack!

Jack: Okay, I see you are angry... It just proves that I'm right!

Sharon: Jack sometimes you are so impossible! Have you ever considered that maybe it's the best thing for me?

Jack: And what about you, Sharon? Have you ever thought that you might be in love with somebody else?! Listen... I refuse to give up!

1. JELENET

Anne: Okay, Sharon, you remembered to buy the beer, right?

Sharon: Of course I did! And you managed to bake the cake, right?

Anne: Not yet... I'm going to bake it this afternoon. I still need to get some chocolate. Actually, Jack offered to get some for me. He promised to bring some before lunch.

Sharon: I'm sorry but I can't help you with the cake, I have to take some tourists to visit the Tate Gallery.

Anne: Oh, don't worry about it, I'll have Jack to help me. He decided to stay home today to give me a hand. Just don't forget to tell Tom, David, Mary and all the others.

Sharon: Don't worry. Peter said he'd take care of it. I'm sure he's already got in touch with everybody by phone.

Anne: Great, everything is going as planned! Oh, don't forget to buy the present!

Sharon: Don't worry. How about getting an astrology book? She'd love that.

Anne: Absolutely! She loves reading those kinds of books!

Sharon: I hope I can get it before I go to work. By the way, have you heard anything from Mr Dubois?

Anne: He told me he expected to come, but couldn't confirm... You know how it is being so busy and everything, it's hard for him to give a definite answer one way or the other.

Sharon: I imagine being a stage director is difficult! Alice will be so happy if he comes!

Anne: Yes, she will... Anyway, mum's the word: if you say anything, it won't be a surprise!

(Alice lép be a konyhába. Anne és Sharon félbeszakítják a beszélgetést, és úgy tesznek, mintha semmi se történt volna.)

Alice: Hey everyone, what are you up to?

Anne: Oh, nothing important... Oh, I almost forgot... Happy birthday Alice! So... What have you arranged to do this evening?

Alice: Well, I considered celebrating with you guys... I mean... If you want to...

Anne: Oh... I'm really sorry, but... Jack has arranged to eat out this evening with his colleagues and he can't put it off now. And... Well... I agreed to correct some reports...

Alice: Oh, I see... What about you, Sharon?

Sharon: Oh, I'm terribly sorry but I agreed to go to the theatre with Peter and he won't be finished rehearsing before midnight...

Alice: But I thought that...

Anne: I know we promised to have a party... But why don't we postpone it? It's just not possible today...

Alice: What a shame! I can't stand the thought of being all alone on my birthday!

Jack: No, she hasn't arrived yet... I've been waiting for her for over an hour. I think she's been shopping... What's the matter? You don't look too well.

Sharon: Nothing, really...

Jack: Don't lie to me... I've known you for ten years...

Sharon: Listen, Jack. I... I really don't wanna speak about it. Okay?

Jack: No, it's not okay! We have to speak about the situation and clear the air once and for all! I've been thinking about us a lot... I've been thinking about us so much! I... I haven't slept well in nights!

Sharon: What have you been thinking, Jack?

Jack: About us! You're leaving for Japan... I've told you before and I'll tell you again, Sharon: it's crazy!... You can't leave now when... When we know how we feel!

Sharon: Jack... You're repeating yourself.

Jack: That's right! And I'll continue repeating myself until you accept the truth. We're made for each other!

Sharon: Stop it! You're embarrassing me.

Jack: Sharon listen, I haven't stopped loving you and I know you feel the same about me...

Sharon: That's it! I said stop it and I meant it! Look, you've made me cry! And anyhow, how do our feelings change anything?

Jack: How do they change anything?! They, they change everything! You must tell Peter immediately about everything. Tell him you won't go!... I'm so happy! I knew you felt the same way about me!

(Hangok hallatszanak... Peter épp most ért haza Anne-nel.)

Peter (kintről): Hey, is anyone in there?

Sharon: Oh my God, it's Peter... He, he can't see me like this!

Sharon: Nothing has happened between Jack and me... Even if I do... still have some feelings for him. After all, Peter, you've been neglecting me for months... The only thing that's important to you is your work! You live, eat and drink theatre and nothing else!

Peter: So you're saying this is my fault?

Sharon: No one is at fault... It's just that we want different things from life at the moment. I've had two interviews with the director of the Archaeology museum... They want to open an art exhibition... And they've offered me a job... Do you understand Peter? It means a job I would really love!

Peter: What are you getting at, Sharon?

Sharon: Would you stay here and not go to Japan if I asked you?

Peter: What kind of question is that?

Sharon: Answer me Peter, it's important... I've accepted the job....

Peter: Without asking me? How could you?

Sharon: ... Did you ask me about Japan? Did you Peter, huh? Are you willing to stay here with me?

Peter (láthatóan megdöbbenve): I... I can't, Sharon. This is my big chance!

Sharon: You see Peter? I'm right! Nothing is more important to you than your success! (Kimegy, és Peter-t egyedül hagyja.)

Kitchen: Everything but the kitchen sink...

Nancy: Welcome to "Cooking Today"! We're delighted to be back in Lisa French's home again. Lisa, we've had so many calls since our last programme!

Lisa: I'm glad to hear it!

Nancy: Well, now... Let's see, here. Sally from Manchester is getting married in June and has always dreamt of having a well equipped modern kitchen, just like the ones in the movies. How can we help her?

Lisa: Well, to begin with, a kitchen environment should be well lit and have ample surfaces to work on. Also, plenty of drawer space is necessary for storage of food items and utensils.

Nancy: I know what you mean. I have to contend with a small kitchen, that has neither light nor enough drawer space! That's why I go out to restaurants!

Lisa: You don't need a king-size kitchen to enjoy cooking in it! What's important is organization and having things at hand.

Nancy: What are the main appliances newly weds should have?

Lisa: Well, obviously a hob, an oven and a fridge are absolutely essential. Today many people can't survive without a dishwasher.

Nancy: I'm one of those people! I really hate doing dishes!

Lisa: So do I! Getting back to the subject, I'd like to show our viewers some optional appliances. Although they're not strictly necessary, they often come in handy in large families or when entertaining guests frequently. One is the grill, another is a deep fryer for large quantities of chips and other titbits.

Nancy: That's not the appliance for me! I love healthy cooking.

Lisa: In that case, you need a steamer oven like this one. In the US it's hard to find a kitchen without a microwave. Microwaves are quite useful especially for busy people. Other appliances, which are also common in the US, are water and icedispensers like this one.

Nancy: Everybody seems to have a food processor these days. Why is a food processor so useful?

Lisa: Well, a food processor's a great boon, since it's a real space and time-saver. It has many different functions: it can mince meat, grate cheese and vegetables, make breadcrumbs, pulp tomatoes, fruit and so on.

Nancy: What else can you show us?

Lisa: An electric beater like this can be used for whisking eggs as well as making mayonnaise. Other kitchen aids are scales and measuring utensils. Careful weighing and measuring are fundamental for successful cooking since recipes are generally in kilos and grams.

Nancy: All right. There are a lot of other things we can talk about, but unfortunately our time is up. Lisa, once again it's been great being here. Thank you for your help.

Lisa: You're welcome!

Let's talk: India and China

Eric: Hello everyone and welcome to "Let's talk", the evening discussion show with our two commentators Tom and Marie.

Marie: Good evening everyone.

Tom: Good evening.

Eric: Well, let's talk business tonight, let's talk about some important developments in the global economy. Let's talk about new markets and new commercial opportunities. In particular, I'd like to know what you think about the extraordinary economic growth that's taking place at the moment in some parts of the world.

Tom: Are you referring to China?

Eric: Yes, and also to India. You know for the last five years the economies of these countries have been growing at almost double digit rates. In 2005 the Chinese economy grew by 9.9%, the Indian economy by 8%. Compare this with an average of only 1.3% in Europe's Euro zone. How do you see these developments? Is this enormous economic growth an opportunity or a threat for European producers?

Tom: I'm rather concerned about it. And I believe that many European industrialists are concerned too. These two Asian giants with their enormous populations are threatening European manufacturing and jobs. The fact is that labour costs are so low in China and India that European manufacturers just can't compete.

Marie: Sorry Tom, but I really don't agree with you. I don't see these growing economies as a threat to European producers. I believe that China and India offer new, important markets to European manufacturers. You know, both countries have middle classes that are becoming larger and larger, these people are becoming wealthier and are looking to spend their money on luxury goods made in Europe.

Eric: So Marie, according to you, European companies can sell their high quality goods to middle class Indians and Chinese?

Marie: Exactly. In this way European exports to China and India are predicted to increase.

Tom: Just a second Marie, the reality of the situation is rather different: India and China are selling much more to Europe than Europe's selling to them.

Marie: I accept, that's true at the moment... But don't forget Tom that cheap Chinese goods have helped to keep inflation low in European countries. And this has helped keep interest rates low too. So consumers have been able to save money and spend this money on other things.

Eric: Well, I agree with you that European consumers and industrialists have benefited from trade with China.

Marie: Of course! What's more, today more and more European companies are building factories in China or are having their goods produced there.

Tom: Exactly, that's the problem! European industrialists are deciding to have their goods produced in these countries because labour costs are lower. If we continue like this, lots of factories in Europe will close and the numbers of unemployed will rise.

Eric: Well I can certainly see that you have different opinions on these issues. I think you're both right. Like most things in life economic growth in China and India has its good and bad points. It can either offer commercial opportunities to some European producers but it can also pose a threat to other sectors of European manufacturing. Ok, let's say goodbye to Tom and Marie.

Marie: Goodbye.

Tom: Goodbye.

Eric: Goodbye to everyone. And see you again for another appointment of "Let's talk".
